“ As we get older, we remember those we knew as youngsters who affected our lives in ways they never knew at the time; Fletcher was such a man. He was a hard working man who always had a kind word and a smile to share with everyone he came in contact with. He had a wonderful sense of humor and a way with words that, once he described something in his country accent, it stuck in your mind forever. In Gulf Shores in the late 50's, 60's, and 70's, Fletcher and his family were fixtures in the community who were loved and respected by everyone who knew them, especially those familiar with the shrimping industry at the time. I'm sure every kid who grew up around the canal in those days have memories of Fletcher when he and Jack Moore (among others) worked for Lee Callaway at the shrimp dock and, later on, when he captained his shrimp boat, the Coral Sea.

The shrimp boats are long gone from Gulf Shores now, and so are most of the men who worked them, but their legacies live on in the lives they touched through the years. Rest in peace, Captain Fletch, and thank you for the many memories.
