“ Mom loved her yard. Growing up I remember always thinking how I was done after a job was given. But mom always saw room for improvement. Started with bushes, then a fence, a patio, so on and so forth, all the way down to the little random trinkets hiding in the bushes and flowers that I still don't know where she would buy them at. I just remember hitting them with the weed eater and getting an ear full. Now that I'm older I catch myself thinking the same way about the things I am passionate about. Always room for improvement! And for that I can never thank her enough. And as much as I hated improving a yard I believed to be perfectly fine as a kid. Now the same yard has become the one place I find peace. Its has become a place that I can still hear Moms voice. "Looking good, would you like a glass of cold ice water" I miss her more than words can describe and I just hope that her and my Dad have been reunited and both are now pain free. That's all I care about. They were the definition of soulmates. Mom and Dad I love you both.
Matt
