“ Took alot of thought to post. Tommy was my first boyfriend probably 9th 10th grade. We shared some great memories but this was a special funny one. We were 15 and we went to tell his parents we were getting married. They were so very cool. They said sounds good so where are ya ll going to work? Hmmm Next question where are you going to live? Hmmm We had our answers but we soon realized this was not a viable option. So we just dated instead. When you are young I think love is so grand. He was so sensitive and at the time the love of my life. He wrote poetry that was great. I shared one He wrote with my dad who was a minister. He used in years to come in many of his sermons. Wished I still had a copy of them. He was caring. Cried easily at things he cared about. We had our favorite songs and our favorite times. Sophmore Hop. Many times he would remember my Birthday thru the years. I regret we didn t stay in touch. He will always remain special in my heart. My condolences go out to all the family. May the sweet memories like mine provide you peace in a very difficult time. He was genuine and sincere in his thoughts for others.
